For the first time since the famed Jim Corbett wrote about them, an author again transports readers to the jungles of Uttaranchal, where dreaded man-eaters had once unleashed a reign of terror on the hapless hill people, for whom Corbett was the only saviour.

The book presents an absorbing account of Jim Corbett's encounters with man-eaters and those brave people who helped Jim in his exploits, as recounted by hill folk. The book further highlights the author's own encounters, adventures and experiences in the jungles.

The author, Joel Lyall, a former Chief Sub-editor of The Times of India, is well known as a prolific writer on wildlife and ecology, for various leading newspapers and other publications. A scholar who has painstakingly researched Jim Corbett's life and exploits, as well as being an ardent ornithologist, Joel Lyall's works have been appreciated by the UNO as well as Corbett fans and wildlife lovers everywhere.
